Rebels Attacking Carthagena Repulsed With Great Loss.

NEW YORK, June 3.-The steamer which to-day arrived from Panama brings the following account of the attack upon Carthagena: Late news from Carthagena confirms the intelligence received by the Spanish gunboat Ferdinand El Catolico Grainton, on learning of the approach of the Government troops under Bryceno, and of their junction with the small force led by General Vila, of Sincelejo, resolved on making a general track on Cathagan and caped injury, many having large wents deputies. From all directions came deputies and Deputies. From all directions came deputies and Deputies.

by General Vila, of Sincelejo, resolved on making a general attack on Carthagena, assaulting it by land and sea. He paid dearly for his temerity. Procuring a number of scaling-ladders, he sent a force by sea, to approach as silently as possible the walls of the city, and to cover this movement he began a most furious attack along his whole line of siege-works, particularly at Laptpa. The assailants from the sea side succeeded in placing many of their ladders, and a number of men succeeded in scaling the walls. Had a sufficient number scaling the walls. Had a sufficient number done this before making a demonstration to attract the attention of the small number of the besieged, their triumph would have been secure; but, with characteristic enthusiasm, when only about sixty men had reached the walls, they began the usual "Vivas," which brought upon them at once the main force of the beseiged. The result was that the attack by sea was repulsed with frightful loss, the bayonet, machete and knife doing the work. Every man who reached the summit of the walls was killed or wounded, and many at their base who sought escape by swimming were drowned. The losses of Gainton's forces were nearly six hundred killed and wounded, and of the Loyalists fourteen wounded and nine killed. After the repulse Gainton withdrew his forces, and proceeded to Baranquilla to await an attack by the Government forces.

Dr. Talmage on "The Despotism of the Needle."

WOMAN'S WAGES.

The Blessing of Honorable Industry and the Misery of Idleness-The Mistake of Parents-Equal Pay for Equal Work-Woman's Oppressors. The subject of a recent sermon by Dr. Talmage was: "The Despotism of the Needle or a Discourse on Woman's Wages." He took his text from Ecclesiastes iv., 1: "So I returned and considered all the oppressions that are done under the sun, and behold the tears of such as were oppressed, and they had no comforter; and on the aide of their oppressors there was power." WOMAN'S TOIL. Very long ago the needle was busy. It was considered honorable for women to toil in olden time. Alexander the Great stood in his palace showing garments nade by his own mother. The finest tapestries at Bayeux were made by the Queen of William the Conqueror. Auustus, the Emperor, would not wear any arments except those that were fashioned y some member of his Royal samily. So let the toiler everywhere be respected! The needle has slain more than the sword. When the sewing-muchine was invented some thought that invention would aleviate woman's toil and put an end to the espotism of the needle. But no! While the sewing-machine has been a great blessng to well-to-do families in many cases, it has added to the stab of the needle the vomen, notwithstanding the reinforcenent of the sewing-machine, can only make, work hard as they will, between two dollars and three dollars per week.

NO HAPPINESS IN IDLENESS. The most unhappy women in our comunities to-day are those who have no engagements to call them up in the morning; who, once having risen and breakfasted, lounge through the dull forenoon in slippers down at the heel and with disheveled hair, reading Onida's last novel, and who, havind dragged through a wretched forelet, pick up their card-case and go out o make calls, and who pass their evenings waiting for somebody to come in and break up the monotony. Arabella Stuart never was imprisoned in so dark a duncon as that.

There is no happiness in an idle woman. t may be with hand, it may be with brain, may be with foot; but work she must, or se wretched for ever. The little girls of our families must be started with that idea. The curse of our American society is that our young women are taught that the first, second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, tenth, fiftieth, thousandth thing Stratton killed each other with a knife and | in their life is to get somebody to take care of them. Instead of that the first lesson should be how, under God, they may take at Harrodsburg, charged with causing the care of themselves. The simple fact is that a majority of them do have to take care of themselves, and that, too, after having through the false notions of their beat one-half of year parents wasted the years in which they we had resigned and to have learned how successfully to maintain themselves. We now and here But the day of jest parents wasted the years in which they declare the inhumanity, cruelty and outrage of that father and mother who pass their daughters into womanhood, having given them no facility for earning their livelihood. Madame De Stael said: "It is not these writings that I am proud of, but the fact that I have facility in ten occupations, in any one of which I could make a livelihood.
